Professional Summary

Starting out as an Assistant Professor In Communicative English and Business Ethics teaching Engineering and Management graduates (2007-15), I joined the West Bengal Civil Service (Exe) cadre under GOWB in 2017, where I've worked as a Block Development Officer (BDO) and a Deputy Magistrate and Deputy Collector (DMDC). I am at present on waiting and am using the leisure I have now to indulge my passion for teaching and writing as a Freelancer and Blogger.

In my teaching career I was responsible for teaching graduate classes, holding seminars and group discussions, preparing and executing lesson plans, preparing advanced study materials and evaluating student progress. I have designed and taught HU101 with Engineering and Management graduates and HU401 (Business Ethics) with more advanced students. I have over seven years' experience in college and university teaching.

In my administrative career I have to closely work with and lead a team to a defined goal: seamless delivery of public services and reaching out to the very last person. This involves negotiations with all stakeholders like elected politicians, political parties, NGOs, the civil and police administration and the common people to arrive at a consensus regarding the best course of action. Overall office management, regular inspections and commissioning and submitting reports on the progress of different government schemes like MGNREGA, PMAY (G), Kanyashree, Mission Nirmal Bangla, Swasthasathi, etc. are a part of my routine job.

I also have three years' experience in creating academic content for civil service institutes and have mentored students appearing for the civil services examination.

I have recently started blogging and am looking to freelance
